President Elliott Says the System Temporarily Has Reached Capacity for Carrying on Business-Great Volume of Business and the Storms Have Brought Great Congestion-New Engines and Cars, Costing $1,500,000, Ordered.

New York, New Haven and Hartford In addition to this, very large sums railroad, has sent this letter to the should be spent, if money can be obtainerstate Commerce Commission, the tained, for additions to tracks, bridges, Public Utilities commissions of Con-necticut and Rhode Island and the public service commissions of Massa-chusetts and New York, stating exact-ly the situation of the New Haven as to freight congestion and other mat-ters of timely interest: I desire to submit to you on behalf of the New Haven as the New Hav of the New Haven company and its allied lines a statement about present conditions due to congestion of business on its own lines, congestion in and around New York harbor, and on many of its connecting lines, conditions which have been made much worse by which have been made much worse of the great storm of December 13-14, which seriously reduced the ability of the railroads to give a maximum amount of service with the facilities at hand; and by the storm of De-cember 26, which did much damage and destroyed and retarded the work of restoring wire communication by telegraph and telephone, and of clear-ing the road of delayed freight. Prior to the great storm of December 13-14, the New Haven road, with facilities that in many places are wholly inade-quate, had been doing the largest vol-ume of business in its history and has been performing a task in handling that business which is taxing its phy-sical facilities. The volume of bus-iness may be evidenced by the following figures showing the number of cars of freight loaded locally on New Haven rails and the number of loaded cars received from connections for the first eight days of a number of months in 1915, as compared with the same eight days in the same months in 1914 and 1918:

August 40,824 September 42,484 October 47,361 November 47,766 December 50,677 39,176 45,631 37,748 44,153 December

8,000 More Freight Cars This Year. The New Haven road has on its alls today nearly 46,000 freight cars, which is about 8,000 cars more than it had a year ago, and 12,000 more than in December, 1913. The result is that its tracks, terminals and other facilities are congested at many places. There are more than 12,000 loaded cars awaiting the discharge of their freight but the owners of the freight are hav-ing some of the same difficulty that the New Haven is having because their own facilities are inadequate in places and cars are not released promptly. Today, on account of storms and congestion, connecting lines have more than $,000 loads for delivery, mostly at New York and via the Poughkeepsie bridge, as soon as this company can handle them. It is interesting to note that the New Haven, with 4,535 miles of tracks,

New Haven, with 4,535 miles of tracks, including main line running tracks, side tracks and yards, had, during the first eight days of December, 50,-677 new loads, while the C. In addition, the passenger train service is tion, the passenger train service is much heavier than on a railroad like the C. status. Improvements have been authorized, not including equipment,

There comes a time when the volum of business that is being done by man, a steel mill, a hotel or a railroa is more than the physical ability of the man or the enterprise to carry on successfully, and in such cases the part of prudence is to state the case frankly to customers and notrons and ice. It looks today as if for the time eing the New Haven road can do note than it is doing and that it may have to withdraw temporarily from some kinds of business. The management of the New Haven arnestly hopes that the result of the efforts now being made on its own road and on its connecting lines will permi the present large volume of busines to continue and that it will be necessary to put out so-called "embargoes and curtail service for only limited periods of time, but it feels that it should state to you the situation that is confronting it at the present timecondition brought about by causes hat are beyond its control.
